Sunday of the Last Judgment, at the Praises

(when combined with the Menaion)

Reader: In the 8th Tone, Arise, O Lord my God, let Thy hand be lifted high;

Daniel the prophet, a man greatly beloved, /

when he saw the power of God, he cried out: /

'The court sat for judgement, and the books were opened.' /

Consider well, my soul: dost thou fast? /

Then despise not thy neighbor. /

Dost thou abstain from food? Condemn not thy brother, /

lest thou be sent away into the fire, /

there to burn as wax. /

But may Christ lead thee without stumbling into His Kingdom.

English text: "The Lenten Triodion", translated by Mother Mary and Archimandrite Kallistos Ware, reprinted by St. Tikhon's Seminary Press, South Canaan, Pennsylvania.

Carol Surgant ~ orthodoxchurchmusic.org ~ 2/13/2026

Reader: Glory, in the 1st Tone.

Let us cleanse ourselves, brethren, /

with the Queen of the virtues: /

for behold, she is come, bringing us a wealth of blessings. /

She quells the uprisings of the passions, /

and reconciles sinners to the Master. /

Therefore let us welcome her with gladness, /

and cry aloud to Christ our God: /

O risen from the dead, who alone art free from sin, //

guard us uncondemned as we give Thee glory.

Both now, "Most blessed art Thou, O Virgin Theotokos..."